From nine-year old with a trophy to 58-year-old with a large hole in the middle of my face. If Coach Aronson had told me in 1969 that in 49 years I'd have a nose-shaped crater in my skull, I certainly wouldn't have believed him. Because nobody gets their nose cut off. Except, apparently, me. My name is Steve Bean Levy.

A total knee replacement, also known as knee arthroplasty, can feel like a second chance at life after years of dealing with a sore, arthritic knee. While most people achieve improved range of motion and better all-around function after a knee replacement, this isn't always the outcome. Unfortunately, some patients still experience a stiff knee after surgery.
