With the Old Breed: At Peleliu and Okinawa is a World War II memoir by United States Marine Eugene Sledge, first published in 1981. The memoir is based on notes Sledge kept tucked away in a pocket-sized Bible he carried with him during battles he fought at Peleliu and Okinawa. The book formed part of the basis of the material covered by Ken Burns' PBS documentary The War, as well as the HBO miniseries The Pacific, in which Sledge was portrayed by Joseph Mazzello.

Sledge celebrates the bond between Marines, a loyalty to one another that he believes helps them endure the horrors they experience. Sledge's highest praise is reserved for the men he calls "the old breed," officers such as Captain Haldane, who teach others how to retain their humanity no matter what they face.

With the Old Breed Quotes Showing 1-27 of 27. "The Japanese fought to win - it was a savage, brutal, inhumane, exhausting and dirty business. Our commanders knew that if we were to win and survive, we must be trained realistically for it whether we liked it or not. In the post-war years, the U.S. Marine Corps came in for a great deal of undeserved criticism in my opinion, from well-meaning persons who did not comprehend the magnitude of stress and horror that combat can be.
